

WITH NO APOLOGIES The Personal and Political Memoirs of United States Senator Ba

The true Republican Conservative who wrote in 1973 as Senator to Henry Kissinger that he was disappointed in Nixon's failure to take off of the government and to shift the reigning bureaucrats, to reduce spending, to abolish nonproductive programs, and to emphasize the harm overregulation was having on our economy. Out-spoken, and uncompromising Senator Goldwater's personal political memoirs are candid, frank, and honest. A tell-it-like-it-is book very much like Senator Goldwater himself. Fascinating quotes and impressions of the political figures of his day. Those who want to know what a real Conservative is should read this book, they all copied Barry.
