

Wired for Life: What to do with Who You Are

Regardless of whether you are a baby-boomer who just can't wait to dump your career and get on with the second half of your life, a thirty or forty-something-professional who knows, without a doubt, that you could be doing something more significant with your life, or a college student who is totally confused about which direction to go in life, you can figure out what you honestly have to offer the world, and you won't have to get an additional degree to get at this important information. This isn't a hollow promise. If you take the journey laid-out in this small book, you will have gone through the same process that we have been successfully using with clients for the last 25 years. The only difference is that you won't have to come to an office and fork over hundreds (or thousands) of dollars to get it. Your total investment in this process, if approached seriously, won't take but two weeks out of your life. The rewards of personal, relational and professional fulfillment, however, will go with you for the rest of your life. So we invite you on a journey into discovering What to do with Who You Are.
